BETHEL PLANNING BOARD HELD MEETING JUNE 13

The Bethel Planning Board met on Thursday, June 13, at the Selectmen's Office. Board members present were: Mrs. James Hudson, Mrs. Ruth Ames, Ted Chadbourne, Wilbur Myers, Frank Lowell and Carroll Valentine. Also present were Elwyn Dickey, Dan McAllister, Mr. West, Mr. Haggerty, Mrs. Bertha Wilson and Frank Murphy.

Mr. McAllister, a representative of the Farmers Home Administration, discussed with the Board and guests loans that are available to people living in rural areas (towns of less than 5500) for home improvement. It is the feeling that many people do not realize that this federal money is available to do small home improvements, such as painting, roof or siding repair, storm windows, heating systems, etc.; it is not meant only for new homes. The Farmers Home Administration has its offices in South Paris. The office is open every week day from 8 a.m. to 4:40 p.m. Officials of the Agency are in each Monday. Mr. McAllister briefly explained the various kinds of loans that are available, and stated that he would be most willing to answer any questions pertaining to individual problems. It takes an average of 3-7 weeks to get a loan, and these loans generally are available for people unable to get the needed money through a bank. There are loans for retired people with a 4% interest charge; money is also available to those earning less than $5,000 per year at a 5% interest charge. The terms for the loan of money for minor repairs would be 33 years continued on Page Four

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

There will be no regular Selectmen's meeting, July 1. There will be a special meeting July 8. Mr. Roberts, the office custodian, will be unable to continue his duties because of the added work load he has assumed at the new Casco Bank building. Anyone interested in doing the work should contact the town manager. We will move the town office to the new quarters downstairs as soon as possible.

The office secretary, Mrs. Eames, is taking part of her vacation this week. Word has been received that the new Ford dump truck is in Portland having the body mounted. We have not heard when we can expect the pick-up we ordered at the same time.

U. OF M. AWARDED $48,109 FOR POLLUTION RESEARCH

The University of Maine has been awarded a grant of $48,109 for research aimed at alleviating conditions which cause pollution in large reservoirs or lakes.

Receipt of the grant, for the period from May 1, 1968, to April 30, 1970, was announced by U. of M. President Dr. Edwin Young. Principal investigator for the research will be Dr. S. A. Zieminski, professor of chemical engineering. Sponsor of the grant is the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, U. S. Department of Interior.

The research will include the mixing of various "layers" of water in reservoirs or lakes through the use of compressed air so that oxygen will reach the organic material which piles up at the bottom of that body of water. The resulting mixing, oxygen supply and improved surface aeration will provide the entire body of water with the oxygen necessary for oxidation of the waste organic matter and a reduction in the pollution of the body of water treated.

The first phase of the research will be to find out how much continued on Page Eight

MAINE'S UNEMPLOYED PAYMENTS UP OVER 1967

Maine's insured unemployed received $805,300 in net benefits during May, the Employment Security Commission said Friday. It represented an increase of $131,301 over net benefits paid in May 1967 which the Commission said was due primarily to the separation of claimant from higher wage paying industries, such as construction, etc.

Former federal employees and ex-servicemen received $33,609 in jobless benefits for available federal funds in May; and an additional $56,922 was paid in allowance to persons enrolled in training and retraining projects under the Federal Manpower Development and Training Act.

Benefits claimants numbered 6,128 in the midweek of May of 1967 fewer than in the corresponding week of 1967.

New applications for employment totalled 2,030 during May from the Commission's offices. There were 1,278 counselling interviews conducted for job applicants; and tests given to 1,043. Referrals from the Agency's local offices resulted in 1,343 persons being placed in gainful employment.

COMMUNITY BETTERMENT PROGRAM ANNOUNCED BY GOV. CURTIS

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis has announced that the new Maine Community Betterment Program, developed by the Department of Economic Development, will be introduced at a workshop July 16 in Portland and at subsequent workshops in Augusta, Bangor and Presque Isle later in the month.

He urged all public-spirited citizens, especially those representing active civic organizations, to take advantage of the workshops to learn more about the program and see how community participation can help strengthen Maine's position in her search for new industry, new markets and new methods of generating growth.

"We are long past the time when economic growth 'just happens,'" Curtis said.

"Whether the search is for more tourists, more industry or more dollars for existing business, the competition is keen.

"To meet this competition, the Executive Department is making every effort toward the reorganization and revitalizing of State departments. Giant strides have been taken in the fields of Oceanography, mineral and off-shore oil exploration. New sciences and new technologies are being explored. But we are only on the threshold of great achievements. We must move ahead in every direction with all possible speed. It can only be done with your help. State government can only provide the tools for economic and social expansion; an inspired citizenry must use these tools. It's together that we move ahead."

The Governor pointed out that the Maine Community Betterment Program is a "grass roots" program, developed by DED, in cooperation with Maine business and industry and other State agencies, to give every citizen of Maine a chance to change his community for the better.

He said participation in the program will encourage each community to take a closer look at itself, compare its efforts with those of other communities and make improvements in municipal services and facilities which will enable it to compete for new business and industry.

The success of the program, as well as Maine's future development, rests on awareness, involvement and accomplishment, the Governor said.

"The more people who understand and are aware of the program, the more involvement is likely—greater involvement leads naturally to greater accomplishment," Curtis said.

Karen Clough, Hazardville, Conn., Louann Brown and Richard Prescott, Waterville, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brown.

GENERAL CHAIRMAN NAMED
FOR WEST PARIS NURSING
FACILITY FUND CAMPAIGN

President Alden E. Redding of Ledgeview Memorial Home Inc.,
 announces that Mrs. Marie Hibler of West Paris has accepted the general chairmanship of the capital funds campaign now being organized. Mrs. Hibler is a former clerk, treasurer and tax collector of West Paris. She is a member of the West Paris Baptist Church.

The board of directors of Ledgeview seek to alleviate the shortage of nursing home and extended care facilities in this area by building a facility of 49 beds. This is an increase of 35 beds over the present capacity of Chapel Valley Nursing Home.
 Like most other homes, the Chapel Valley Home is always full and unable to accept more patients. In consequence, many persons requiring nursing home care
 cannot be served.

The new Ledgeview Memorial Home is incorporated on a non-profit, tax-exempt basis which will enable it to serve without reflecting those costs in its rates,
 and, accordingly, to make nursing care available to people with less means.

The campaign objective is $100,000 which will make possible
 the construction of a service facility estimated to cost about $200,000. In addition to being non-profit, it will serve without regard to religion, color, or race.

Members of the board of directors, and friends, are making pledges and gifts payable over a three-year period. The board of directors consists of Alden E.
 Redding, president; Erlon C.
 Hadley, vice president; Mrs. Verna R. Cole, secretary-treasurer;
 Walter E. Appleby, Adelbert Z.
 Bowen, Mrs. Violet Bowen, Daniel Brown, Mrs. Mary I. Fleming,

 Kahkonen, Donald J. Mason, Hubert E. Redding, Mrs. Zilla C.
 Redding, Erlend A. Thurlow, Mrs.
 Helen Thurlow, Lyle E. Wiggins,
 Mrs. Elaine Wilday, Larry Wil-
 day.

A Citizen's Board will act in an advisory capacity to the operating board. The Citizen's Advisory Board is representative of the towns of the area and its members so selected as to afford Ledgeview an awareness of the interests, economic and social trends of the entire area. Members of the Board are: Chester J.

PARENTS SHOULD KNOW WHEREABOUTS OF
FAMILY CAR KEYS

The Executive Director of the Maine Highway Safety Committee urged parents to know whereabouts of their teenage children, and to "keep a hard hand on the keys to the family car."

Peter A. McKenney responded to recent investigations into several motor vehicle accidents involving teenage drivers in urging a tightened parental control. "In our affluent society, we tend to want to give our youngsters more than ever was within our grasp when we were their ages," the safety director said. "However,
 the inherent dangers of operating a motor vehicle are astounding, and the rate of accidents involving young people under the age of 21 is just as astounding."

McKenney also suggested a tightening of supervision of young people away from home attending college, and a better parental coordination with college personnel where the operation of a motor vehicle by the student is evidenced.

"As a last resort," said McKenney, "we are asking the Maine Chiefs of Police Association to be especially alert for the young offender. The younger driver is involved in most of the accidents,
 is involved in most of the bad injury accidents, and is becoming involved at an alarming rate in death producing accidents. Drastic action is needed, and it is needed immediately."

to repay the loan with interest charged only on the unpaid balance. There is also a plan available of a loan up to $1,500 with up to 15 years to repay at 4% interest. This loan is made to people with low income and would be for heating systems, bathroom, paint, and/or storm windows. Do-it-yourself loans are available and there is also a self-help loan, the terms of which would be that a group would build homes for each other with the advice of a carpenter hired by the FHA.

Mr. West briefly discussed the help available to people
 through the Soil Conservation Service. Bethel is fortunate to have had a study made so that there are complete maps available at the town office. These maps show the topography of the area, where there is good drainage, or poor drainage, etc. This knowledge would be most helpful in choosing a site for a home.

It was the general feeling of the board that if people could be more aware of the help provided through government services, they could feel more free to borrow money to improve their homes and therefore enjoy more comfort in them.

Through the summer the members of the Planning Board will study the Model Building Code
 published by the Maine Municipal Association and the Abbreviated National Building Code of the American Insurance Association. After careful individual study of these codes the Board will meet next on Thursday, Sept.
 19, to begin to prepare a building code suitable for Bethel. It is the hope of the Board that any interested persons will attend this meeting.

vice to all the people, everyone in the six or seven town area is

It is chiefly by private, not by public, effort that your city must

GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres.

This week has been a busy one with so many "catch up" things to do so inside work has predominated. There have been but a few hours of sunshine anyway so it hasn't been too hard to stay inside. But by letters I have traveled and adventured with my nephew in Vietnam and my sister up Mystic River, Conn.

She writes: "Around 9:30 a. m. June 16th we started out (from Fishers Island in Long Island Sound) in the boat and went across the Sound to Connecticut shore along by Noank and up the Mystic River to the big Marine Museum. There were many buildings besides the big whaling ship "Charles Morgan." That was very interesting.

I'm glad I'll never have to go out on a ship and have to sleep in those little narrow bunks with high sides and a port hole maybe four inches across it. So dark and like a big box!

The captain had what they called a living room with a one and one half foot wide horsehair divan built back into the partition. In the corner was a little desk. The room may have been four feet wide and six to eight feet long.

Around a corner was his bedroom. He had a three fourths very dark wood bed instead of the narrow bunk.

There were nails on which to hang oil skins. What a gloomy old place!

On deck set in stone or brick, I forget which, were two huge iron kettles probably four feet across each, where they melted the blubber.

I would have liked to have had time to spend hours, looking at the ancient things over in the buildings.

We went up the Mystic River as far as we could go. It ended (deep water) by a big brick factory in Old Mystic.

All along there were thousands of boats and beautiful yachts.

Later we came across to South Dumpling Island, a little thing maybe three hundred feet long.

and Heather at the Cooper Camp Thursday afternoon.

Donald Demarest has begun haying. The hay is quite stout because of so much rain this year. Let's hope the sun will come out before long to aid these farmers in their curing and caring for this most essential fodder for their family of cows.

Donald Mason's Motel is growing rapidly into 8 units. The plumbing was being done this last week. He hopes to have it ready for guests by the 4th of July.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Davis called on Robert Cushman at Chapel Valley Nursing Home Sunday.

Mrs. Christine Campbell and four children attended a going away party given Addie Mann at the Universalist Church Sunday evening.

We anchored to eat the lunch we had in the boat. There were hundreds of gulls on the island. Every little while out of the grass or rocks popped a little ball of tan down. One Mama gull fed her little one.

Then we came home."

After reading her letter I read the complete history of the "Charles Morgan". It's the only wooden whale ship surviving from the 19th century fleet of American whalers. She was built in 1841.

She was named for the prominent New Bedford merchant who was her first owner.

The "Morgan's" whaling ventures took her all over the seven seas.

On her maiden voyage, Sept. 6, 1841, she rounded Cape Horn and cruised the Pacific Ocean.

She made 37 voyages over the years ending in 1921.

In 1941, the "Morgan" was brought to Mystic Seaport and turned over to "The Marine Historical Association."

The vivid description of the capturing of a whale was thrilling reading.

Whalemen were certainly among the sturdiest of our maritime forefathers. The "Charles W. Morgan" is preserved today as a tribute to their accomplishments and as an inspiration for future endeavors.

From Vietnam I received six colored pictures some with beautiful green grass and trees. My nephew described it this way, "The mountains around Mang-Yang have several treeless areas on them. These areas are covered with a good green grass and really are scenic. Some of this country is really beautiful but is 'spoiled' by war."

He tells of three ambushes in eighteen days while at Dakto saying, "Charlie, made it real hot for us. We have now moved to Pleiku and it seems so good to be here where it is sort of peaceful. Just today I took a three hour sleep. We are away from the big guns which would shake our personnel carriers something awful. It made it rough sleeping.

"Here 'Charlie' will hit and run which seems easier to take, than what we went through at Dakto."

As usual, something new on the pond. This morning at 6:30 mother duck with her eight little ones came to our shore where we could watch them over our morning coffee. (Sunday) There's a family that doesn't mind the rain!

At the farm they have cut their first grass but my husband says, "Last year was difficult but this year is impossible." Farmers do you agree?

A new camp has been built here near us this week belonging to Walter Inman.

Miss Ann Holt has started work at the recreation center at Norway.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hayes spent this week at Gulf Hags, fishing.

Miss Judith Hakala is visiting her aunt at Farmington for a few days.

Miss Lillian Curtis is with her sister, Mrs. Stephen Cogswell, at Freeport for the summer.

Mrs. Helen Heath, Norway, visited her mother, Mrs. Edla Tamlander, one day this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt, Old Town were at Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt's for the week end. Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Chase, West Paris were there for Sunday dinner in honor of her birthday. Later Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Morgan joined the party and enjoyed some of the beautiful birthday cake made and decorated by Fay Holt.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere Cox and family, Norway, visited their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Morgan on Friday.

Maureen, Sherry and Brenda Millett were at "Storyland," in New Hampshire on Saturday with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Coffin, West Paris.

GOULD CLASS OF 1918 HOLDS REUNION

For its 50th reunion the class of Gould Academy, 1918, met Saturday, June 22, 1968 at 1 o'clock for a delicious dinner at the Red Rooster dining room on the Rumford Road.

Ten of the 15 living members with their husbands and wives were present: Jennie Bean Jones and husband, Lewiston; Una Brooks Tons and husband, Rye Beach, N. H.; Lester Brooks and wife, West Roxbury, Mass.; Alma Cheney Bishop and husband, Bowdoinham; Kathryn Hanscom Bailey and husband, Lewiston; Robert Hastings and wife, Bethel; Blanche Herrick Staples, Rumford; Dorothy Hutchins Fortier, Falmouth; Naomi Smith Bean and husband, Old Orchard Beach; Myrtle Wilson Lapham, Bethel.

After the dinner an enjoyable hour was spent learning of the activities of classmates, their children and grandchildren as well as recalling many of the humorous and amusing happenings during the four years at Gould. A few moments of silence were observed in memory of those members who had passed away. Letters were read from Alice Brown, Shrewsbury, Mass.; Ruth Brown Smith, Florence, Mass.; and Chester Howe, Clearwater, Fla. SAFETY COMMITTEE SHOWS DECREASE IN SEVERE TRAFFIC CRASHES

The Maine Highway Safety Committee has released figures showing a decrease in the number of severe traffic crashes during the first six months of 1968.

Peter McKenney, the Committee's Director, said the figures were especially significant in view of the recent drive to make auto manufacturers install safety equipment. McKenney contends that seat belts, better visibility, from within the vehicle, and better packaging of the occupants has cut down on the number of injuries and deaths. "To back this up," said McKenney, "we point to the fact that the total area of traffic crashes is slightly ahead of last year, yet the number of injuries and the number of deaths is somewhat less."

McKenney said the Maine Highway Safety Committee is convinced that the use of seat belts and shoulder harnesses is definitely working to cut down on traffic deaths and injuries. He suggested stepped-up efforts by the news media and by local officials to encourage people to use these proven safety devices. He said, "If newspapers and news departments of radio and television would point out the usage or lack of usage of seat belts after a crash has been reported, they would in all probability, do a great deal to continue to lower the severity of injuries in traffic crashes."

POLLUTION RESEARCH

air should be introduced and at what place and depth of water in order to achieve the required effect for a given size, shape and depth of water, according to Prof. Zieminski. Much of this early research will be done in large tanks of water situated in laboratories on the Orono campus.

Once this information is obtained, the researchers plan to conduct field tests in larger water reservoirs or lakes in Maine.

According to Prof. Zieminski, organic matter of natural and industrial origin tends to settle at the bottom of large bodies of water and its oxidation is responsible for this depletion of oxygen in the bottom layers. Although the warmer upper layer contains plenty of oxygen, poor mixing does not allow this oxygen to be transferred to lower layers to replenish the deficiency.

Eventually all oxygen is used up and the resulting anaerobic conditions lower the water quality. Formation of hydrogen sulfide as well as sulfides of iron and manganese takes place and the carbon dioxide concentration increases, Prof. Zieminski says. This anaerobic decomposition can produce undesirable organics, imparting bad taste, odor and occasionally toxicity to the water. The organic matter piles up on the bottom and gradually the body of water becomes smaller and shallower, according to Zieminski.

The introduction of compressed air in appropriate places in a body of water, in addition to providing oxygen, results in precipitation of iron, reduction of carbon dioxide and improvement of color, according to Prof. Zieminski.

Tests have shown that the use of compressed air for mixing of large bodies of water is an inexpensive and simple method. However, very little is known about the design and efficient use of this mixing system, Dr. Zieminski adds.

"We do not have sufficient basic information to be able to predict from the results of one case the possible results in another case," he noted.

Martin E. Ray of Fedra, Pa., a NASA trainee in chemical engineering at the university, will work full-time on some theoretical aspects of the problem as part of his doctoral investigation. Some other graduate students will participate in this research on a part time basis.

The Couples Club of the Methodist Church will meet Saturday night, June 28, at Richard Stevens' camp, Songo Pond, for a 6:30 picnic supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Cook, Robin and Neil, Homestead, Fla., are spending several weeks visiting relatives in Maine, including her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Berry.
